What is Emsi Data?

At Emsi we're passionate about providing meaningful labor market data for colleges and their students.

Our labor market dataset includes data from three categories: government sources, online job posFng acFvity, and professional profiles/resumes. This report primarily leverages the laWer, known as our Profile AnalyFcs database, which aggregates social and professional profiles from over 100 public websites.

How does Emsi construct a "profile"?

We consolidate billions of raw social profiles and d

How does Emsi determine if alumni are working in their field of study?

Emsi compares the SOC code of a profile's most recent job to our custom CIP-SOC mapping to determine whether the job is in or out of the field of study indicated by the CIP code your insFtuFon provided. The mapping is based on the NCES CIP-SOC crosswalk and the experience of Emsi's Professional Services team. In cases where no determinaFon is possible, web reports indicate “out of field.”

What is my region?

The list of counFes or states that defines your service region (as specified by your insFtuFon) can be found in the region tab of the Outcomes or Analysis Excel files. Emsi uses this list to determine if a matched profile currently resides in or out of your region. *Note: Filtering the report by geographies outside of this service region will always result in 0 alumni in region.

How does Emsi es=mate wages?

All wage metrics are an average for the group of your selected alumni. PotenFal Wage is based on the average wage for their occupaFon in their county. EsFmated wage is based o
